FROM the SIDELINES

By TAD TARG

NO MATERIAL GAINS. — I have been transfered from the back page to Page 1 in this issue, apparently for space reasons.

It was a "clean" change, with no strings (money!) attached, unfortunately.

I made no material gains, so that I wouldn't lose my a m a-t e u r s t a t u s.

In fact — I lost a bit on the deal.

As you see, I have been cut down to size a little...

☆ ☆ ☆

CANTERBURY v HAKOAH match of the week proved to be somewhat one-sided in patches.

Not by final result, but in general play.

Canterbury forwards, cut through, time and time again, but their shooting was ineffective.

The biggest offender — Bruce Young.

Bruce has all the qualities to become Australia's No. 1, centre forward, imports inclusive.

He possesses a keen soccer sense and a good ball control.

Bruce's biggest asset however is his speed and ability to brake through the centre.

But speed also seems to be his downfall, he hurries his shots.

If he'd only stop for a fraction of a second to steady up — he would score more freely and more often.

Take your time, Bruce, you can afford to do it.

You are yards faster than your opposition, and a good shot.

☆ ☆ ☆

CONTINENTAL CUSTOM. — Once on the subject of Canterbury I must congratulate the team for adopting the European custom of not attacking the goalkeeper.

Canterbury boys apparently believe, that if a team is good enough to win, it needn't employ doubtful means to prove so.

☆ ☆ ☆

"POKER FACED" JOE. — "Uncle" Joe Vlasits, Canterbury's coach, has besides his teaching ability, a perfect temperament for a coach.

No matter what happens, whether his charges are in a scoring position or in difficulties, he displays the same half-smile, with all other muscles motionless.

He never understimates the opponent.

When you ask him before the game how his team will fare, Joe's answer is always the same: "I will be very pleased if we win by one goal".

Definitely a good man to have on the sideline.

BILLIY WRIGHT. England's captain and Wolverhampton Wanderer's centre half, will become the first soccer player in the world to have won 100 international caps when he takes the field against Scotland on Saturday at Wembley.

Wright played his first international game in 1946 and became England's captain in 1948.

He led England in the 1950, 1954 and 1958 World Cup series.

Wright joined the Wolves as a bootboy straight from school and has been with them ever since.

New control has big task ahead

Federation President Andy Burton heads the new body set up to control soccer in this State — the NSW Federation of Soccer Leagues.

Other Federation delegates are Messrs Bartlett, Princi, Grimson, Hoytash and Craig.

The task confronting these delegates is to fulfil promises made to the public when the Federation was rebel organisation.

All the shortcomings of the old controlling body must be overcome" and all the vigor and enthusiasm used to break the old dictatorship directed to the building of a virile body.

All the soccer world awaits the first moves of the new organisation as it has been well informed of the events of the last two years.

The immediate task is the proper organising of the imminent visit of Costa Rica.

Never again must visiting teams be allowed to leave Australia with bad impressions of this country's organising ability and hospitality.

It is encumbent on all club officials to assist in making these tours an outstanding success.

Golden era beginning for football in N.S.W.

By CENTRE HALF

The end of the soccer war opens up a golden era for the code in New South Wales.

This has been made possible only by the tenacity of the Federation in its determination to win out against terrific odds.

For too long soccer, under the old control, had been satisfied to flounder along as a minor sport.

But the time now has come for it to get out of its swaddling clothes.

We must think big and act big.

To act big, we must tackle the problem of the coming visits of Heart of Midlothian and Deportivo Saprisa.

The planning of visits of overseas teams in the past has been farcical, with clubs not knowing until the last minute how their fixtures would have to be reorganised to accommodate the tourists.

The big aim must be for Australian teams to beat the tourists and thus build up our prestige in other countries.

First, the Australian Association must be made to realise that it is the prestige of Australian soccer that is at stake — not the Association's bank balance.

In the past we have seen the money-saving antics of the Australian body, which led to any kind of team being pitted against visiting sides to keep down expediture.

The Federation must insist that only the best teams represent Australia, particularly in this State.

Teams must be chosen well in advance and of a calibre guaranteed to give the tourists a run for their money.

They must not be pushed into the game in any old haphazard.

Players must train together and only the best should be chosen, irrespective of where they come from.

Tommandl in Sydney

Austrian star Walter Tommandl arrived in Sydney this week by air to join Prague.

He was one of FK Austria's top players when that team toured Australia two years ago.

Some critics rate him above Jaros and Baumgartner.

Tommandl is a utility player, being equally at home at half back or inside forward.

SECOND DIVISION REVIEW

By H. BYRNE

From my forecasts of last week Pan Hellenic at home and Corinthians away were the only correct results.

Anyway, with form running the way it is, anything can happen.

At least that's my excuse.

I have been told that the game of the day Pan Hellenic v Julia turned out to be a very unfortunate affair, with three Julia players being taken to hospital.

The players are D. Rossa the centre forward, who was taken off after two minutes play, left winger J. Horinek, who has a dislocated elbow, and G. Sgubin, broken leg.

Mr. Lorenzutta of the Julia club reports that it was more or a fight than a game, with the referee the only one thinking otherwise.

Corinthians another of my earlier forecasts for honors ran home with a 12—0 victory against Undercliffe.

Goals were scored by G. Kenny (5), A. Miller (4), and J. Dyket, R. Johnston, and G. Cotton one each.

Reports indicate that Undercliffe were on this occasion very disjointed and that they had no answer to the moves of right half H. Booth, ex-Aston Villa player.

In passing I must congratulate the Corinthian committee for the great effort they are putting in to getting first class players.

Off field moves

However, they are proving that moves off the field are as equaly important to those made on it.

Mr I. Stanojkovich, of White Eagles, tells me that Neerlandia deserved their 3—2 win.

The best players of the day were J. Fiamengo, of White Eagles, and the centre half and centre forward of Neerlandia.

Other reports indicate that Neerlandia were very quick to take advantage of ground conditions.

These boys seemingly like heavy going.

St. George had their first victory, at the expense of Polonia.

As reported last week, Polonia is in a very bad position regarding injured players, especially now that George Rosenblatt is in hospital with a broken leg.

George was one of the few outstanding forwards of last season and his absence will be a great blow to Polonia.

I must, however, congratulate the St. George club who feel will now proceed to move up the table.

Blacktown and Lidcombe-Clyde. each lost a valuable point at home, but it all goes to show how close the competition is at this stage.

Sutherland going down to Dalmatinac was a bit of a surprise, but as I have said before, the boys from Liverpool will be very hard to keep away from the top of the table once they blend their team together.

Forecasting this weekend's games I take the following to win at home: Corinthians, Concordia, and Dalmatinac.

Away winners: Pan Hellenic, and Blacktown.

All other games draws.

Polgar leads Federation training squad

The Federation this week made its first concrete moves towards build up a training squad for matchesa gainst the touring Costa Ricans next month.

It has appointed former Hungarian international Gyula Polgar to take charge of the squad.

Polgar is coach of First Division club APIA.

Prague's Austrian international Leopold Baumgartner will be assistant coach.

Selectors appointed are Messrs A. Burton, H. Lakmaker H. Bartlett and R. Walker.

Manager of the squad will be Mr. Fred Rayment, assisted by Mr R. Walker.

The choice of coach appears to be a shrewd and wise move, for Polgar has the ability and experience to do the job.

Polgar has been only in Australia for 12 months, but his European experience is considerable.

World tour

He represented Hungary in two World Cups and held the centre half position on the national team for 10 years.

Before coming to Australia he coached Italian team Novara.

The squad will begin intensive training immediately it is selected.

The Costa Ricans, who are on what is virtually a world tour, are scheduled to arrive in Sydney on May 13.

By then they will have played in Holland, Austria, Italy and Honkong and will go on to New Zealand.

Their first game in Australia will be against the Federation team on May 16 at the Sydney Sports Ground.

£2000 guarantee

The tentative programme calls for a match at Wollongong on May 17; against Scottish tourist Hearts in Sydney on May 20; and at Newcastle on May 23.

The Costa Ricans have been guaranted £2000 for each match.

The Federation is hopeful also of staging a game in Melbourne.

It has authorised President Andy Burton and secretary Eddy Princi to go to Melbourne to sound out this possibility.

"Soccer World's" Victorian correspondent L. K. Stone last week urged the promotion of a Costa Rican game at Melbourne's Olympic Park, claiming it would be a terrific drawcard.

Player of the Week

JOHN CURRY

Canterbury's John Curry played a great game at centre half against Hakoah.

His solid defence had the whole opposing forward line well covered.

His head clearances were a feature of his game.

Curry undoubtedly has developed into one of Australia's greatest centre halves and he will be hard to bypass for selection to play against touring teams.

AROUND THE CLUBS

Bankstown have had a most unfortunate start to the 1959 socccer season.

Injuries have played a large part making them struggle to maintain their reputation.

For many years, Bankstown tave been in the top flight of first grade soccer, and their supporters are finding the lowly position of their team 'hard to take".

The club has one of the best appointed grounds in Sydney.

It is capable of holding 10,000 people and could be enlarged to hold 20,000.

The Soccer Club now has a big say in the local sports club.

Volunteer workers from the Soccer Club have put in many hours renovating the building, which is now one of the best of its kind in Sydney.

Every facility for indoor sport is available to members.

Live wire secretary Mr Bob Clark has done a magnificent job for the club since his appointment this year.

Mr Clark tells us that he has a very enthusiastic band of workers around him and speaks enthustastically of the work they do.

Club President Harry Bartlett believes the team's position will improve considerably after the return of all their injured players.

English importation Barry Wainwright is a decided acquisition, and two more like him would see Bankstown well on the way to recovery.

GLADESVILLE-RYDE

Harry Robertson is still having trouble with his knee, which he has had drained.

He will be out of action for a few weeks.

President Johnny Thomson is back on the job after his illness.

Supporters are urged to bock early for the trip to Balgownie on April 18, about which committeemen can give details.

Club officials are a little concerned about the lag in return of nomination forms for membership of the new club and point out that the sooner these are in the quicker it can be functioning.

Don Wort had a great day against Granville, despite his critics, who have not given him much encouragement lately.

CONCORD

Concord are well satisfied with the performances of their young players.

McFarlan, Warren, Davies, Currie, Bilbey and Curran all only 21 or less.

Coach Bill Jameson has got and is keeping all players in the pink of condition.

The acquisition of Ted Hillyard from Gladesville has been a big factor in the team's improvement and the youth policy should pay dividends in the long run.

Letters to the Editor

Claims goalkeeper's ability overlooked

I would like advance the merits of Canterbury-Marrickville goalkeeper, R. Brown, for your consideration and for that of the Federation electors, because we will have in this country soon the Deportivo Saprissa team of Costa Rica.

So far this season, none of the papers have seen fit to mention any other goalkeepers than Lord or Henderson.

I have great respect for the skill and sportmanship of Lord and Henderson, but it would be appreciated and I think rewarding if the critics turned heir attention to other goalies such as Brown, who is a fine player with a big future.

V. Rodriguez,
Manager, Canterbury-M'ville

Canterbury tipped to continue winning run against A.P.I.A.

The Canterbury—APIA game should provide this weekend's thriller and even at this early stage of the competition it could be a key match.

APIA have high hopes of finishing in the first four this season and will be all-out to avenge their crushing Ampol Cup first round defeat.

The team which will take the field on Saturday is vastly different from the one beaten at Lidcombe Oval and the Leichhardt eleven's delighful pattern play could upset the "Berries", who will be weakened by Brown's injury.

I am nevertheless confident that coach Vlasits will have worked out some efficient cheme to counter the visitors.

I am tipping CANTERBURY to win after a very close match, which should keep the crowd continually on its toes.

Sydney Austral in top condition

Sydney Austral are still undefeated and their supporters can be proud of the team which has been playing very well, so far, and has collected four points which will prove very useful when they will be meeting the top teams.

Against Budapest, last Saturday, Sydney Austral could have won in the last 15 minutes when they were in complete control.

The team is in excellent condition and last the full 90 minutes.

Evans is quickly making a name for himself in Federation soccer and his full backs are solid.

Balgownie well balanced team

A. Smit and de Pyper could win the match against Balgownie if they manage to outspeed Ryan and Robinson.

Balgownie are quite a well balanced side.

Richardson is an inspriation for the team and its Italian players are a valuable acquisition.

Once again it will depend on Ganis and McWatters whether the opposing defence can be subdued.

SYDNEY AUSTRAL are on the crest of a wave and I expect them to win against Balgownie in their first match at home this season.

Wingers' absence hits Hakoah

Hakoah badly missed their first grade wingers against Canterbury, and this largerly contributed to their downfall.

Hearn worked hard, but received very little support, and in defence Aird and Walsh stood out.

Hakoah will need to be at full strength if they are to upset Corrimal — always very hard to beat at Memorial Drive.

The South Coast team now is playing very well, as their big win over Bankstown showed.

I am tipping CORRIMAL to beat Hakoah after a hard match, because the visitors will be flat out to make amends for last Sunday's defeat against Canterbury.

If talented 18-year-old winger Biro is fit to play, Hakoah should provide a very dangerous opponent.

At the present moment Bankstown are completely off balance and the team looks like needing a lot of reshuffling if results are to be obtained.

The "Towns" have had 10 goals scored against them in two matches.

Had it not been for Irvine's glorious matches one shudders at the thought of what the scores could have been against Canterbury and Corrimal.

Bankstown will face another very hard match against Prague, who are always at ease when playing teams with the Bankstown style of soccer.

The visitors on Sunday will have to be a very improved side they are to give the new glamor team a hard game at Sydney Athletic Field.

I must tip PRAGUE to win because Bankstown are so far from being anywhere near their true form.

Bankstown have been, of course, very unlucky to meet the three best teams in their first 1959 matches.

It is hoped that coach Mitrovich will have the side in top shape for coming games against so called "weaker" teams — if such teams really exist in this year's high standard First Division.

Gladesville's late scoring burst against Granville gave it two much needed points and a shot in the arm, and the team must feel pretty confident of the outcome of their match against Budapest.

Budapest cannot be taken lighty, of course, as their Hungarian style football can be devastating.

Against Sydney Austral they had the match practically won after 70 minutes, but faded badly in the dying stages and were actually lucky to gain a draw.

If Galambos takes the field, BUDAPEST should win.

As things stand I am predicting a DRAW.

One of the highlights of the game will be the different styles of goalies Kaldy and Hough — one very daring and spectacular, the other much more experienced and steadier.

The Concord-North Side clash should be very interesting.

The teams are young combinations and have had good starts in the curent series.

North Side is perhaps the better side on the paper, but on the field Concord knows how to make a fight of every match until the last minute.

The North Side backs would do well to have Delaney and Bilbey well covered.

The visitors' forward line is its best, and Wong will once again be his team's strongest asset.

His scoop signing-up could mean a boom in soccer in the North Shore, especially if the team continues to play as well as it has done so far.

Traditional rivals resume "derbies"

I am tipping NORTH SIDE UNITED to win, but Concord never give up and have the talent this year to test any team.

Auburn and Granville will resume their traditional "derbies", after an interruption of three years.

In this period Auburn has had a "rags to riches" climb to the top of NSW soccer.

Granville on the other hand have lost many good players to various clubs and are now struggling to field a worthy team.

Marshall is their best forward and Lindner can be expected to put on a good showing any day.

But AUBURN, despite a quiet opening in this year's competition, must be favored to take the points at Mona Park.

Morrow, Quested and the Henderson brothers will be all out to prove that they are in line for selection for the coming international fixtures.

CORRIMAL UNITED

Keen battles forecast for right to contest Ampol £1000

What a prelude to the 1959 soccer season the Ampol Cup has been.

Record crowds trekked to out-of-the-way Lidcombe to see some of the finest soccer ever played in club games in New South Wales.

Teams like Gladesville, Balgownie, Granville, APIA and Hakoah all failed to reach the semi-final, which only proves the quality of teams left to fight out the finals.

Prague, Canterbury, Corrimal and Auburn are left to battle for the coveted prize — the Ampol Cup, plus £1000 cash.

Who would be game enough to predict tonight's winners with confidence?

Will Prague defeat Corrimal?

Remember last year's meeting under floodlights when Corrimal overcome a four-goal deficit to get up and win?

What about Auburn's encounter with Canterbury?

Can Auburn play it's way to yet another final?

Can they defeat the "flying" Canterbury boys, whose speed and guile will make them a difficult task for Quested and his boys to combat?

These teams are worthy of top class soccer and fans should not be disappointed in tonight's programme.

Prague, with all its stars, is improving week after week.

They have been undefeated in all games played to date.

The inclusion of Saghi and Schwartz has taken the 'weight' of Baumgartner in-so-far as "shadowing" is concerned.

"Shadowing" must now be more evenly distributed, resulting in a more devastating Baumgartner.

Jaros, too, notices a difference as he has more latitude, which suits his type of game.

Baumgartner is the perfect foil for Jaros, whose understanding is near perfect.

Jaros' speed is a feature of his co-ordination with Baumgartner.

Schwartz improving

Schwartz is improving every game.

Saghi has shown he has ability but as yet has not settled into the scheme following his hurried departure from Austria.

Sherwin and O'Neil also are improving every game.

Scheinflug is the Federation's most improved player.

Ron Lord, of course, needs no introduction to soccer fans.

Despite his handicap, his form has never been better.

He has lost none of the agility which makes his displays so spectacular.

Ringhof, Purcell and Schirato complete a well balanced team.

Corrimal, too, are playing well and Prague will know they have been playing when the game is over.

Corrimal have been one of this state's glamor teams for many years.

They are capable of playing class soccer and their encounter with Prague should attract all South Coasters to Sydney tonight.

Seasoned campaigner

This team of seasoned campaigners who know all the tricks of the trade will make Prague play all the way.

Internationals like Bignall and Young, together with Learmonth, are cagey schemers.

Learmonth's tussle with O'Neill should provide one of the highlights of tonight's game.

Goalkeeper Orvad has few peers in Federation Soccer.

His displays in the Ampol series so far have been first class.

Taylor and Devlin have been playing soundly and rarely give much away.

In the forward line Burns, Rowles, Stewart and Peters are capable of producing top class soccer.

Coach Bernard Bryant has plenty of experience to use if at all necessary.

This should be a great game.

Hard to stop

Canterbury and Auburn will contest the other semi-final.

Both teams have performed spendidly so far this season and the outcome is difficult to predict.

If Canterbury are in the mood they will be hard to stop.

But Auburn have always been fighters and never accept defeat until the final whistle.

Auburn have a proud record and indication are that this game will be no exception.

Their rally against Hakoah in the quarter final of the Cup was an indication of their tenacity.

Goalkeeper Henderson has splendid record behind him,

JUNIOR SOCCER

More than 1200 players from 8 years to 14 years took the field when the Bankstown Districts Junior Association's 1959 premiership competition opened last Saturday.

The Association has 106 teams, which shows the tremendous growth of soccer in this area.

Bankstown have now passed Canterbury's total of last season by two teams.

This is a remarkable achievement, after being in existence for only nine years.

Top teams clash in Ampol Cup semi-finals

having represented Australia on many occasions.

At times he is really a delight to watch.

Full backs Cardiff and Wallace provide splendid support for Henderson.

Wallace has waited daiently for his opporunity, of which he appears to have taken full advantage.

The forward line at one time was all Quested, but since the acquisition of Morrow the attack is now centred upon the two.

Morrow is good and requires plenty of attention.

His ball control is excellent, and his parting shot always spells danger.

Quested, always in perfect condition, is the "power" behind all the Auburn schemes.

Devastating thrust

He has devastating thrust, which shoots him clear of all opposition into the open space.

The perfect understanding built up between his centre and inside forward of "against the wall" moves leaves him menacing opposing goalkeepers all too consistently.

Hall, of course, is dainty and gives Knapp and Morrow plenty of support.

Young Warren, from Canterbury, will find the opposition a bit tougher than second grade, but has the chance to improve if he has the ability.

Staples, on the other wing, is always reliable without being spectacular.

Auburn's half back line may be the dominating factor in determining the outcome of the match.

Quested, Duff and Andy Henderson have a tremendous task in facing the clever Canterbury attack.

They are capable of meeting the challange and what's more capable of carrying the game into Canterbury's area, thereby providing a constant threat to their defence.

Canterbury, who carried all before them last season, are quietly confident of repeating last year's performance.

This team would almost be the youngest in the competition.

Further, they would be the most consistent.

The fact that they have so few team changes is an indication of their consistency.

Brown in goal will be trying hard to topple Lord and Henderson for a berth against Costa Rica.

He could easily do so on his present form.

North and Jones are quickly developing into two of the best full backs in the game.

Their halves Cousins, Curry and Stocks provide the ideal link between defence and attack.

Curry is a grand centre half, seldom beaten in the air and just as effective on the ground.

He is a decided "show" for selection against a touring team.

Transfers could cause trouble

With the granting of affiliation by the Australian Soccer Football Association to the Federation, an interesting point arises as the position of many players brought from overseas.

The matter is of grave importance and one to which all Federation clubs with overseas players should give serious consideration.

In spite of views to the contrary, it is clear from the statutes of FIFA that a player — amateur, non-amateur under contract or licence, or a professional — must be in possession of a certificate of transfer before he can change his national Association.

Unless a player so changing his national Association is in possession of certificate of transfer, no Association may register him in one its clubs.

Ban possible

As a matter of interest, therefore, Article 12 of Chapter VIII of the Regulations of the FIFA is quoted:

"If a player — amateur, non-amateur under contract or licence, or professional — wishes to change his national Association, no Association may register him for one of its clubs unless he in possession of a certificate of transfer.

"The certificate of transfer shall be issued in duplicate and duly signed by the previous Association.

"One copy shall be sent by registered letter to the Secretariat of the FIFA and the other to the new national Association.

"The certificate of transfer shall contain the declaration that the holder of this certificate is free to play football in the area of another Association from the date shown on the certificate.

"The issuing of this certificate shall imply on the part of the previous Association that all commitments of a financial nature, including the transfer fee where applicable, have been settled".

Regulatiations

From this and other FIFA regulations, it is obvious that FIFA may ask the Australian Association, later to prevent certain overseas players now with Federation clubs from playing until they have received certificates of transfer from the national Associations of the countries from which they came.

This also would mean that the players concerned would not be allowed to play against any visiting team once the Federation became affiliated to the Australian Association.

Crack Spanish teams to fight out European Cup semi

By LOU GAUTIER

All quarter finals of the European Cup have now been played and the two Spanish teams, both from Madrid, Athletico and Real will meet in the semi-finals.

French team Rheims will play the winner of the replay between Young Boys Berne and Wismuth Karlmarxstadt in the other semi.

In last fortnight's matches Real Madrid overhelmed Wiener Sport Klub 7—1 in Madrid before 140,000 spectators at Benabeu Stadium.

The Austrians were never in the race and Madrid played some colossal football which completely nonplussed the young and rather unexperienced Viennese players.

For Real, di Stefano scored four goals and Rial, Mateo and Gento one each.

Rough game

Real's local rivals, Athletico, did well to hold West German champions Schalke 04 to a 1—1 draw at Kelsenkirchen (Rhur).

A record crowd of 35,000 packed the small city's stadium and saw quite a disapointing game, because once again the match was a rough and torrid affair.

The Germains tried desperately to overcome their technical inferiority by playing fast and furious football, but their gamble did not pay of.

Nowak scored for Schalke and Vava — the World Cup Brazilian center forward — for Athletico.

The semi-final between the two Madrid teams should be sensational.

Rivalry between the two clubs is tremendous and scores of thousands are certain to be turned away when the chosen 140,000 will pack the huge Madrid main stadium for what will be, for Spanish fans, the "matches of the century".
